“Hard to define, easy to enjoy — The Mondegreens pull from a variety of inspirations and sources to craft an indie-pop sound that is heavy on melody with oh-so-sweet harmonies.”

-Marty Taylor, The Roots Cellar

BIOGRAPHY

With the spring release of their second full-length album, All Our Neighborhoods, The Mondegreens have taken yet another major step forward. What started as foot-stomping, folk-rock, echoing their sunny roots in rural Northern California, has developed an edge since a 2015 relocation to Seattle. All Our Neighborhoods still carries the ever-present three-part harmony and wide dynamic swings of the bands earlier work, but is now laden with lush synths, and an exploration of where crunching guitars meet pop sensibility. Following their May album release party at Neumos, The Mondegreens will embark on a summer-long album release tour of the western US.

PRESS QUOTES

"The Mondegreens created something unique with All Our Neighborhoods that is rare — an abstractly meaningful album that is still able to highlight their musical intellect and each band member's talents." - Brenna Beltramo, Dan's Tunes

"Something about the heaviness of the guitars combined with a bit of pop sensibility really fits with my musical tastes. Their harmonies were reminiscent of the Fleet Foxes..., with a tad of Weezer angst, and Grizzly Bear lo-fi" - Ryan Mandell, Santa Barbara Independent

"They have a soulful sound that mixes in some psychedelic influence. The result is a beautiful collection of buttery smooth tracks that are perfect for cool summer nights on the beach." - Marissa Abruzzini, Tourworthy
